The AACT high school classroom resource library and multimedia collection has everything you need to put together a unit plan for your classroom: lessons, activities, labs, projects, videos, simulations, and animations. We constructed a unit plan using AACT resources that is designed to teach Aqueous Solutions to your students.

Grade Level: High school and college students. In this experiment, students titrate a hydrochloric acid solution with a sodium hydroxide solution using a Go Direct ® Drop Counter in the process. They then use a pH sensor to monitor changes in pH as the sodium hydroxide solution is added to a hydrochloric acid solution and plot a graph of pH vs. volume. Students then use the graph to determine the equivalence point of the titration and use these results to calculate the concentration of the

In Jen Solari's "Experimenting with Solutions- Designing an Experiment" lab, students conduct research to find the three factors that affect the rate at which a solute dissolves in a solvent and design an experiment to test the effect of one of these factors on the rate at which salt or sugar crystals dissolve in water. This activity is designed for high school chemistry classes. It is to be used during the study of solutions when solubility and miscibility have been introduced. One class period would be plenty of time for introduction of lab and completion of an informal lab report. Use standard laboratory precautions. Subject: Chemistry Resource Type: Lab Activity

Properties of Mixtures vs. Solutions: Mix It Up! - Lesson

A class demonstration led by the teachers gives students the opportunity to compare and contrast the physical characteristics of a few simple mixtures and solutions. They discuss the separation of mixtures and solutions back into their original components as well as different engineering applications of mixtures and solutions.

Lab: Alka-Seltzer & Gas Solubility. In this lab, students will use a reaction to investigate temperature and the solubility of carbon dioxide and will use a neutralization reaction and an indicator to verify the amount of carbon dioxide produced at each temperature. 1 L solution 0.6000 mol NaCl. 1000 mL solution 1 L solution 500.0 mL solution $\times \times \times = 17.53 \text{ g NaCl}$.
Answer: Using a balance, measure out 17.53 g of NaCl into a small beaker and transfer it to a 500-mL volumetric flask. A funnel may be necessary to transfer the solid into the flask.

solution Prepare Lab Report You will prepare a mini-lab report with the sections listed below. See the Grading Rubric below to find out what to include for each section. Complete sentences and correct spelling and grammar are expected. Please submit all of the following sections in one file, if possible.

High School Chemistry Solutions Lab

In this lesson students are introduced to solutions through performing a lab activity. The goal of this lab activity is to give students a chance to make some solutions so that they have something visual to think about as we discuss solutions. The goal is also to give students an overview of what we will be learning about pertaining to solutions.
